AMANDA LILLEMOE WINGFINDER REPORT

amandalillemoe@gmail.com, assessed 08 January 2023

WHAT MAKES YOU UNIQUE, AMANDA?

Every one of us is unique, with different passions, strengths and goals. Knowing your strengths and how to best leverage them, along with what to watch out for, enables you to develop, grow and succeed.

Developed by Red Bull and an expert team of psychology professors, Wingfinder focuses on your strengths, the things that you're naturally inclined to be good at, and gives you the tools and coaching to be even better.

The Wingfinder model comprises 25 individual strengths organised in terms of four key areas.

Thousands of scientific studies have shown these four factors to be more influential than any others for success in knowledge-based jobs.

Your CREATIVITY measures how original and innovative your thinking is, or how logical and analytical it is.

You're open-minded, often coming up with new and interesting ideas. You enjoy novelty and change, and avoid routine as much as possible.

Wingfinder measures CREATIVITY using three scales. Let's explore your creativity in more detail.

YOUR PERSONAL COACHING PLAN

Your personal coaching plan focuses on your top 4 strengths. These top 4 strengths represent your strongest personality preferences and the areas that you are most likely to start and continue developing. Your personal coaching plan brings together years of experience and specialist knowledge on how to train for success and is customised based on your personality.

WHAT ARE STRENGTHS?

Strengths are the ways you are most likely to behave - your strongest personality preferences. They are aspects of your personality that you use to succeed at work and as you rely on them you are more likely to start and continue developing them. High performance comes from shaping and expanding your strengths through concentrated effort and practice.

YOUR STRENGTHS, YOUR STORY

We all have our own unique strengths. Wingfinder focuses on the key factors for career success which have been identified by psychologists across thousands of scientific studies. What YOU DO to develop your strengths will make the difference.

BEWARE OF THE DARK SIDE

Every aspect of personality has its positives and negatives depending on the situation and being selfaware will help you succeed in your career. As your top 4 strengths are your most preferred way to behave, you may be overusing them, or there may be situations they may not be to your advantage, how they can be managed and developed is key.

You're not too bound by rules and routines. Because your ideas change from one moment to the next, you crave freedom and flexibility.

KEEP DOING

You're someone who responds well to the unknown. Not only can you handle uncertainty, it even boosts your creativity and helps you thrive. STOP DOING

You enjoy constant change, which means you sometimes find it hard to stick to just one thing. Acknowledge and then resist your itchy feet occasionally to make sure you drive your assigned tasks, initiatives and goals through to completion.

START DOING

You know there are many ways to behave in certain situations, so trust in your ability to be flexible and adapt your approach to best suit the circumstances.

Here are four ways to help you build on this strength

Give yourself concrete goals

Make sure you follow through and complete projects. Give yourself concrete goals to maintain your focus.

Prioritise then act

Think about everything you did last week, in and outside of work. This week, work out which tasks you want to focus on. Prioritise then act.

Allow your creativity to flow

Start by getting all your ideas on paper. It doesn't matter if they're terrible or fantastic; just let it all out and allow your creativity to flow.

Be adaptable

Adapt your communication style to different situations and different people.

You are DISCIPLINED

> You're highly meticulous and most likely have a plan. You're thorough and never miss a detail, which is why you're so efficient and reliable.

KEEP DOING

Seek out projects and responsibilities that have or need structure, where you can prioritise your tasks and work accordingly. Your high standards of work, and desire to deliver, drive people around you to do better.

STOP DOING

Identify situations where things aren't working as efficiently as they could be. Use your natural discipline to make them more productive. Be careful if you're chasing perfection in all you do in some tasks, 80% will suffice and will allow you to move quickly to other tasks where your high standards are needed.

START DOING

When you're working with less disciplined colleagues, get them to focus on the results rather than the process itself. Learn to be aware of when your desire to complete tasks gets in the way of being flexible and being able to change priorities.

Here are four ways to help you build on this strength

Take short mental breaks

People typically work best in focused periods of 20 minutes. Take short mental breaks to keep yourself agile.

Prioritise

You can't do a hundred things at once. Choose three things you want to prioritise.

Stop trying to do everything

Think before agreeing to do something. Check whether you've got the time.

Keep a journal

Forget Facebook, make a real journal. Write down what worked, and what didn't go so well, from the day before.

Your original thinking makes you stand out. You prefer to avoid the obvious route when it comes to problem-solving.

KEEP DOING

Keep things fresh. You're at your best when you're coming up with new ideas and projects, and looking for the full potential in things. Keep asking how can it be done better.

It's possible to have too many good ideas, so learn when it's time to stop. Focus instead on bringing a few selected ideas to life.

START DOING

Transform your ideas into real innovations by working closely with practical, pragmatic thinkers and people with an eye for detail. Their skills will complement yours.

Here are four ways to help you build on this strength

Always think about the bigger picture

When tackling problems at work, think about the bigger vision. This will you help make better guided decisions that line up to the strategy.

Learn from your setbacks

Failure is a point you grow from. Innovation comes when you use the learning from your setbacks.

Embrace difference

Work in an unfamiliar environment, with unfamiliar people. This will help refresh the way you think.

Stay focused

Avoid jumping from one shiny project to the next without driving things through completion and all the way to adoption.

You are an ACHIEVER

You're motivated and ambitious so you work hard to make a real difference. You expect a lot from yourself.

KEEP DOING

Keep challenging yourself and sharpening your skills. Nothing's more satisfying than working at the peak of your ability.

STOP DOING

Hold back a little because sometimes your desire to get things done can come across as being too forceful.

START DOING

Focus on a few carefully prioritised tasks — quality rather than quantity should be the focus of your achievements. The key to your growth is to act on the learning from your successes and failures. To accelerate this, check out the 5P model below.

Here are four ways to help you build on this strength

Disconnect when you can

Make full use of your holiday time to stay refreshed and at the top of your game. Disconnect when you can as chances are, the work will still be there for you when you return.

Plan ahead

Plan each day the night before, focusing on just the things you want to prioritise.

Be realistic

Ambition will take you places, but be realistic about what you can actually get done.

Remember to prioritise

Understand what's urgent as that's where your focus should be. The rest can wait.
